PUTNAM'S

Clearing Sale gives one an excellent opportunity to replenish their wardrobe with very little money. The Boys' All-Wool Suits, 10 to 15 years, at $4.50, are disappearing very fast. It is dull times when gold dollars won't sell for 50 cents. Lots of Gentlemen's Jeans and Business Suits to be disposed of this month at prices low enough to disappoint you if you don't happen to have the money to buy. Several lots Men's All-Wool Pantaloons, broken in sizes, some of which are slightly soiled, reduced to $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00. Our Fine Black Worsted Coats, Vests, and Full Suits have been marked way down in price. The Children's Blue Flannel Sailor Suits at 75 cents will not last long. Several lots of Children's Short-Pant Suits at $3.00, which have been reduced in price nearly one-half to close. Men's Brown Linen Pants, 50 cents; good value at $1.00. A SHAM BATTLE

At Camp Walker Intended Only for Disorder in Fruit Shooting.

And Which Resulted in Serious Fighting, with Burned Farm and Injured Stock.

Dunster Colts Fired from Military Arrest by the Civil Authorities at Rockford.

Dunster, Ill., July 31.—[Special.]—The event of the day here was the first participation on the battle ground in the north of this county, but which unfortunate occurrence has been made. Upon the Charles Arts 1,000 acres of beach ripe for harvesting stood ready to be cut. The grain was perfectly matured, and the farmer was anxious to get it into the shock and under the sheaf bridge, and take a position on a platform and not suspect that shells, thus sent from the batteries near by to be posted around on the bluffs above the woods, and also how to be suddenly opened on the camp. This was to be some kind of a surprising and this Dunster, Third and Fourth Infantry were to be associated, served with ammunition, and aroused before the dawn from camp. Skirmishers were to be thrown out, actually way to open from the center, a range of two companies was to cover the road above the woods, down the Fruit Infantry and, after an hour's exchange of bullets, there was to be some maneuvering, and then the shock was to open. The shock was somewhat unexpected and the battle-ranks were scattered from the maneuvers. In the first place the gun, instead of being placed where it was supposed it should be, was carried on the road about a quarter several yards, thereby being entirely to prevent its passage and its use to gunners completely spoil engines. A shot failed to open fire on the camp, the firing beginning with the battery in camp. In order to understand the engagement, that General Anderson, the infantry commander, it must be understood that there is a road leading from the foot of the road which crosses a bridge spanning the creek and there, thereof, on the side of the road, and the other to the north, which is a public highway, to an eminence, partially open to the south, and the Fruit Infantry, and on the north by the woods

THE RAILROADS.

The Sixth Lawsuit Said to Have Broken Control of the Northern Pacific.

The Burlington's Recent Purchases Said to Be the Driving Cause—Other Roads Interested.

Dyker to Solve the West Shore Puzzle—The Winners Control's Rub Line to Chicago.

There is no longer any doubt that the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad has secured control of the St. Paul, Minneapolis & Manitoba Railway, and that one of the principal reasons why it decided to build an independent line to St. Paul, just previous to the announcement that the Burlington Company had decided to build the new line to St. Paul Mr. James Hill, President of the Manitoba Road, and one of the largest shareholders, had conferences with the Burlington people in Boston, and it is known that he took them to the property of the Manitoba to the Manitoba Road. It is generally understood that the Manitoba pays 10,000 shares, that have been quoted in the Burlington before the building of the new St. Paul line was decided upon, into the hands of Manitoba stock, of which there are about 100,000 shares, which give it a full controlling interest in that road. As the Manitoba line controls the largest share of the Red River Valley business and is in position to form the only connection of the Canadian Pacific and controls the Manitoba business of that road, the action of the Burlington has proved to be the other connections of the Manitoba road as no other could but drive the grain path. The Great Northern, Northern, and Minneapolis & St. Paul will be most seriously affected by being deprived of business from the Manitoba Road, and since they have become aware of the fact they have been trying to secure the Manitoba Road, but the Burlington people have secured the Great Northern Pacific and Canada Pacific and Canadian Pacific and control
